

CCS Residential College of Cultural and Community Studies

The College of Cultural and Community Studies, founded in 1972, is one of Northwestern's first residential colleges. Nestled in a blanket of lustrous ivy and home to a diverse range of students, residents are proud to call CCS home. CCS is the smallest (and coziest!) of the eleven Northwestern Residential Colleges, with at most 39 in-house residents each year. Our small size makes CCS a comfortable and fun place to live. From our annual Master's Banquet to weekly Munchies to ad-hoc dance parties, CCS emphasizes active participation in dorm and res-college-wide events, together with interaction with the local community through a variety of cultural outings and community service. Favorite outings include trips to ethnic neighborhoods, crêpe brunches and co-op dinners, and camping in Wisconsin. :)

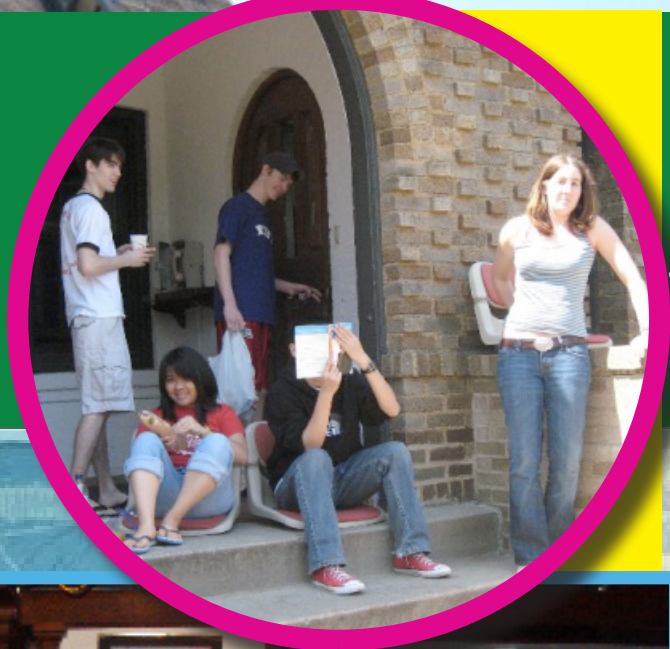

Photo by Sean Chu

Photo by Grace Graham

Our Green Cup poster!

Secret Satan - CCSers dress up as other CCSers for Halloween!

CCS Fun Facts

MASCOT Gangsta Koala

FAV IM SPORT Dodgeball

FAV FELLOW EVENTS

Annual Formal Master's Banquet

Show-and-Tell Dinner

Dim Sum Sundays

LITTLE-KNOWN FACT

Our location! We're between Foster House & Lodge, just north of Sargent

Also, the 5th Floor is its own Nation

ON OUR WISH LIST

To have a CCS pet (and an elevator! :P)

Setting up for Master's Banquet

